LAS VEGAS – The Las Vegas Business Academy (LVBA), a nonprofit organization founded in 2011 by Rino Armeni, announces Anthony Stelluto, senior vice president and credit administrator of Bank of Nevada; Davin Homan, state manager of Nevada and Hawaii for The Patrón Spirits Company; and Garo Atamian, vice president of operations for Haig's Quality Printing, will join the organization as board members and mentors.

"We are continuously looking for successful individuals to add to our board to create a diverse group of organizations and individuals that our students might not normally have access to," said Max Tappeiner, LVBA president. "It's important for our scholarship recipients to learn a variety of skill sets that will allow them to succeed after graduation."

Anthony Stelluto came to Las Vegas in 2005, taking a position as vice president at the California Bank & Trust, where he went on to work for a variety of financial organizations to gain the knowledge and expertise needed to succeed. As senior vice president of Bank of Nevada, Stelluto is responsible for the credit quality of a $450 million commercial loan portfolio, originating, negotiating, structuring, closing and managing a portfolio of the bank's larger and more complex relationships.

Davin Homan graduated from University of Central Florida in 2008 with a Bachelor of Business Administration. After graduating, Homan went to work for companies such as SCOOP Lounge LLC., New York Life Insurance Company and MKTG INC as a brand ambassador for Tequila Don Julio. Now, Homan serves as the state manager for The Patrón Spirits Company. As state manager, Homan oversees more than 84,000 case businesses in Nevada and Hawaii, focusing on key sales and commercial targets, building and maintaining business relations, budget and bank management and forecasting market trends.

Garo Atamian found his way to Las Vegas after graduating from University of San Diego in 2013 and founded Sun Lion Investments, LLC, an investment corporation that works to acquire worthwhile real estate properties and equities. Now, Atamian serves as vice president of operations for Haig's Quality Printing, where he executes strategies and compiles data driven analytics to increase company performance, planned projects and leads a team of corporate strategy administrators.
